

Svetlana Bryzgalova joined Stanford Graduate School of Business as an Assistant Professor of Finance in August 2015, after receiving a PhD in Economics at London School of Economics. Her research focuses on the estimation and testing of the asset pricing models, modeling of the term structure of interest rates and the intersection between finance and macroeconomics. She is the recipient of the 2015 AQR Top Finance Graduate Award at Copenhagen Business School.